

Mika Tajima, "Total Body Conditioning"
Friday August 22, 2014

Tajima could be described as a social colorist: Bright hues often dominate her work, but so does a fascination with the things and cultural mechanisms that affect the body and its relationship to daily experience. Those interests come together in this show, featuring three new series, including a group of hot tubs mounted to the wall like paintings.